Copper Top Table

Whit McLeod of Arcata, California

This copper and redwood table has been specially designed to compliment the redwood bench seating. The cut corner styling on the top provides safe maneuverability and allows easy access to the bench. Using economically abandoned metalworking techniques, we've copper clad the table top in order to provide protection from the weather and add the warmth and beauty of aged copper. Using Old World craftsmanship, we've perfected a method of wrapping the copper top that allows this table to beat harsh elements. All corner joints are trimmed, folded, soldered and filed by hand to form a weather tight finish. The base is made of Redwood from salvaged logs with exterior tung oil mix finish. The top is finished with Airplane grade wax. Dimensions: 30 wide x 30 deep x 29 high.

Douglas Fir Stool

Whit McLeod of Arcata, California

The vertebrae design for these pieces was inspired by a classic Frank Lloyd Wright design. By using found materials, such as nails pulled from floor joists and plywood roofing, the "vertebrae" back creates a high quality aesthetic with wood that would have been landfilled. We use traditional mortise and tenon joinery to ensure a durable, long lasting, piece of furniture. The character of the aged wood is integrated into the construction design, and due to the limited supply of specific demolition materials, each stool is an original and limited edition. MATERIAL: Douglas Fir and other materials from industrial demolition sites. Materials vary depending on availability. We will work with you to find the right material. FINISH: Tung oil mix. UPHOLSTERY: Hemp with wool fill (shown with custom upholstery) DIMENSIONS: 16" width x 19" depth x 42" height.

Remanufactured Mattresses and Box Springs

St. Vincent De Paul of Eureka, California

What is a Remanufactured Mattress and Box Spring? Here at St. Vincent De Paul, we remove the old covering and all materials from inside donated mattresses and box springs, otherwise headed for the landfill, leaving only the metal or wooden framework and springs. We repair and clean the springs and frames as needed. New padding is placed over the springs on both sides. A full inch of foam is then placed over the padding for comfort. A new cover is sewn on in the same way it is done at new mattress manufacturing facilities. The quality of these mattresses can be higher than a new one at the same price because of the frame.
